for the Virginia Passenger and Power Company, yesterday received the following letter:

Richmond, Va., June 26, 1902.

Miles M. Martin, Esc., Attorney for Passenger and Power Company, Richmond, Va.:

Dear Sir.—Herewith enclosed find my check for $100 for the benefit of the motormen and conductors who have so well upheld the rights of your company. I am not a citizen of Richmond, though interested in its prosperity, and have been in the city for the past ten days, an onlooker of the difficulties of your company against the seum and lawless element of the city. Such men as you now have should have recognition from your city's best people, and not let the dollar mark be placed above their manhood and their ideas of right. Conditions at present disclose the fear merchants, manufacturers and trades people have of the power of strikers or their adherents. Every man has a right to stop work when he sees fit, but if it takes the whole power of the United States Government to uphold a man taking his place, this power should be exercised so strong as to deter any interference. The class of people elected to enforce the laws, generally speaking, are people looking for political preferment, and great things cannot be expected of them. I hope the good people of Richmond will arise to the motormen and conductors who daily are in danger of being killed without being able to defend themselves, as evidenced by the failure of justice in the police courts, when a motorman or conductor was fined for drawing his pistel against the attack of a hoodlum on Church Hill some nights ago. As to the merits of the controversy, I know nothing, but I know on good authority the present employes have been stoned and otherwise harassed, and should have some recognition at the hands of the tax-payers, who believe in the protection of property and life and maintenance of law and order.

Yours truly.

Frank Nalle, Esq., Richmond, Va.:
Dear Sir.—I acknowledge with much pleasure your favor of this date, enclosing your check for 8100 for the benefit of the motormen and conductors of this company, who have so fearlessly performed their duty under the trying circumstances of the last ten days. Your sift and the cordal words of commendation which accompanied it are most gratifying to the company, and both sift and praise will. I know, sive great pleasure to the brave fellows who have stood calmly at their posts in the face of the constant and grave danger which confronted them.

The Only Exciting Incident in the West End Last Night.

who lay concealed awaiting a second approach of the skulking assassin or assassins, who so nearly succeeded in accomplishing their dastardly work on Thursday night.

Comparatively speaking, the quiet of the grave prevailed. One man—William Tucker—was shot from a crowd early in the evening, but far away from the scene of the recent disturbance. Here and there a loud torpedo popped and caused people to dash into the streets and peer to the right and the left; in another place a stone struck a conductor; in still another a conductor was hit by a harmlesg shot or two, supposed to have come from an air rifile. Later at night reports were abroad to the effect another load had whizzed by Main and Vine at a street car, provoking a voiley in return from the soldiers therein. But all of this was relatively considered of a slight and trivial gort. The presence of soldiers in the dangerous spots evinced a very persuasive influence on the eril genius of the West End, which has been abroad in the land an dien night air was peaceful and quiet as it should be. an dthe night air was peaceful and quie an dthe night air was peaceful and quiet as it should be.

In view of this unusual but gratifying calm, the event of the evening most interesting was the arrest, for the second time, of George C. Winn, one of the strikers, taken in Thursday night near the scene of the firing, for alleged interference with motormen. The warrant served on him yesterday afternoon charges him definitely and explicitly with feloniously shooting and assaulting Sergeant Charles D. Easley, of the Lynchburg Home Guards, and Private John D. Easley, of Newport News. The man is now confined in the Henrico juil.

Thorough Preparations.

Thorough Preparations.

Since the affair of Thursday night, which was discussed widely throughout the city yesterday, and universally condemned as the most dastardly feature of the strike-terror which has yet appeared, particular direction has been directed to the West End, just outside the city limits. Thorough preparations were made to prevent a repetition of the occurrence, and the preparations had the desired effect.

effect.
At the Main Street sheds Company C. of Newport News, Captain Johnson, was stationed, with about fifty men. Lower down were others, and from the start there were sentiness at Lombardy and Plinm Streets. Later in the night they were pushed further down into the city.

Strict orders were given and a careful watch was kept. Around the sheds the ulmost vigilance was maintained. Behind a pile of bricks near the field of the Thursday shooting a squad of men were concealed, and at different other points they were stationed around. Each car was stopped as it went by, and the guards told of the location of the men, so that they would not by any chance fire in that direction, if firing became necessary. From the direction of the Reservoir somewhat similar preparations were made. Men were hidden at different points along the route, and were steadily on the qui vive for marauders, Major Saville declered last night that the field was so covered that it was almost impossible for any dangerous shooting to occur.

One Man Shot.

As a result of these arrangements an inwonted quiet prevailed. At 11:20 o'clock he officers in command at the car barns eported "all's well," and nothing doing widness.

reported "all's well," and nothing doing or done.

About 8:30 o'clock in the evening a shooting occurred, but at a spot considerably remote from the sheds. At Belvidere and Main Streets somebody fired into a car and one man-a passenger—was injured. He was struck in the arm and side with bird shot, and was not badly hurt. After treatment by Dr. Sycle, of the ambulance, he walked to his home, which is on Belvidere Street.

In the neighborhood of Harvie and Main Streets during the night a number of torpedoes were placed on the track and the racket they made suggested muskets, but wasn't hurt. The pellets were about the size of buck shot and are supposed to have come from air-rifles.

Over on Broad Street in the neighborhood of Laurel, some stones were thrown at a car, and on Main, near Harvie, it is said, a conductor was hit with a rock.

The situation at the Reservoir was excellent. Soldiers were there in considerable number, and there were no demonstrations. Three men were arrested on trivial charges, such as drunks, etc. All around in the territory adjoining the barns great quiet prevailed.

This is the sum total of happenings in the West End, so far as ascertained. At midnight it was reported that a car had been fired upon at Main and Vine Streets, but the report, which was to the effect, also, that nobody had been hurt, could not be verified. Lombardy and Main is no longer in evidence. Soldiers are there, and not even the suspicion of a crowd is allowed to appear for so long as a moment. Back in the fields toward Cary Street some men congregated, but they did not assert themselves in any definite way.

Winn Arrested Again.

During the course of the afternoon George C. Winn, the ex-motorman picked up Thursday for alleged interference with motormen, was arrested a second time, and on a more serious charge.

In this second warrant the man, as stated above, is charged with at least a part of the shooting which occurred near the place where he was arrested. The warrant reads that he did feloniously shoot and assault Sergeant Charles D. Easley and Private John D. Easley. It will be recalled that carridge shells were found on the person of Winn when he was apprehended. It develops, or at least it will be claimed by the company, that the two soldiers were injured by a pistol with a bullet corresponding in size to the shells in Winn's pocket.

Winn is now locked up in the county joil. Ball on such a charge is heavy, and as the examted only by Judge Wickham.

jail. Bail on such a charge is heavy, and can be granted only by Judge Wickham The prisoner denies any knowledge of the shooting, and declares that he knew a solutely nothing about it until he was a rested Thursday night and taken to when one of the wounded men was. A gent nan who lives near the scene of the shooting man who lives near the scene of ing declares that he saw Winn after all the firing had occurred.

EASLEY PICKED OUT

Seems to Have Been Purposely Made a Victim.

Seems to Have Been Purposely Made a Victim.

It is now believed that young Charles Easley, the sergeant of the Lynchburg Home Guards, who was shot in the hip Thursday night, was intentionally shot, that is to say, picked out by the marksman lurking in ambush. Mr. Easley, who is now at the Old Dominion Hospital, stated that some of the crowd around the point where the troops were stationed had made inquiries as to which was Sergeant Easley, and that once or twice when he had passed hisses had been heard. These facts lead to the belief that he was picked out to be shot at. The young man is doing nicely at the hospital, where he is attended by his mother and by his uncle, Judge John D. Horsley, one of the leading lawyers of Lynchburg. Mrs. Easley is a widow, and resides at the corner of Judge John D. Horsley, one of the leading lawyers of the lawyers of the light and will not be removed. It will become encysted, and will do no harm there after the wound heals.

It turns out that the other Easley who was hurt Thursday was only slightly injured and resumed duty. He is not abrother of Charles, who has a brother in his company, but comes from Newport News. All the other injuried are doing nicely, indeed, it is a subject of general congratulation that not a single one of the injuries so far inflicted is dangerous.

CROWD COULD NOT GATHER

Church Hill Under Complete Military Patrol-Night Was Quiet.

Patrol—Night Was Quiet.

It would simply have been impossible for a crowa to gather on Church Hill last night. The system of patrol established by Major Martin, who is in command of the five companies of soldiers stationed at the car barns at Twenty-ninth and P Streets, is well-nigh perfect. Soldiers held guard on every square from Twenty-first and Marshall Streets to the sheds. Not only so, but for several squares out from the tracks soldiers keep watch for knots of half-grown men who might develop a propensity to hurl a stone or pop a pistol. It was simply impossible for a disturbance to be caused. People left the streets early and by 10:30 front doors were closed and the thorough farce were left deserted and lonely. The cars ran on a good ten minutes achedule, seven cars being run as on the night before.

The last car left the barns at 11:30

oughfares were left deserted and lonely. The cars ran on a good ten minutes schedule, seven cars being run as on the night before.

The last car left the barns at 11:30 and made the round trip without incident, Major Martin has his territory under splendid control and he and his men are masters of the situation. To-night will be the most trying on them, and one of the officers said last night that he hoped the saloons would be closed early in the day not to be opened again until Monday But this officer said that the lawless class on Church Hill were now finding out that the soldiers are shooting directly at them, and that no case had occurred recently, where cars had been stoned without the soldiers fring upon the miscreants, not only shooting at them, but doing so to take effect.

The soldiers are ordered to shoot any man or rowdy youth who throws a stone at a car, if he cannot be arrested, if any one calls out "scamb" or any other abusive epithet, he will be affected, and if he runs and won't hat he will be shot as the Wilcox youth last night.

It was about half-past of clock when the disabled car made the trip up from Fulton and all the way to the Reservoir, with a conductor standing on top of the car silhouetted against the darkness, a target for stones and hostice builets. The talk of boycotting those who ride on the cars is now being indulged in some cases and various stories are being told cases and various stories are being told on this subject. One of them is to the effect that a gentleman alighted from a car and was politely accosted by another who asked him if he intended to ride on the cars during the strike. On being informed that this was his intention whenever he had occasion to do so, his questioner asked if he was not afraid that such a course would injure his business. "Oh, I am not afraid of that." replied the catechised gentleman. "Why not? What do you do?"

"Nothing but drink liquor and have a good time. If you can hurt me, crack your whip."

One case which actually came under the observation of the reporter was that of a young lady, who earns her own living and had been given tieues by her employer and told that he did not think she would be harmed on the car he would not speak to her again. She refuctantly decided not to do so yesterday.

to Bé Shot.

The unreasoning animosity of some one of West Clay Street was the cause of the shooting Thursday night of Mrs. A. E. Wash, a most excellent lady, living at No. 760½ West Clay Street.

A car was bowling along Clay Street about 10 o'clock, when some one threw a bottle of shee pollsh from a second story windw at the soldiers in the car, cr possibly at the motorman. Anyway, a soldier was sitting on the left hand side of the car, near the front. The muzzle of his rifle was pointing outward, while his thumb rested on the hammer. He was ready for anything that might happen. The bottle hurled from the window struck him fairly on the thumb and made him involuntarily jerk back his hand, and with it the hammer. This slipped, and the cartridge, exploding, did the rest. Mrs. Wash was standing in her door, and, unfortunately, in direct line with the course the bullet had determined to take. Her wound is not dangerous. Drs. Keck and Franklin dressed the injury that night and yesterday the family physician. Dr. Jacob Michaux, was summoned. She is getting along nicely under his treatment.

Mr. E. S. Mitcheil, of No. 420 North

Mr. E. S. Mitchell, of No. 420 North Twenty-third Street, tells of an instance which illustrates the force with which the bullets fired from the soldiers' rifles travel. During the firing on Church Hill Thursday night a ball struck his house and penetrated three thick walls, narrowly missing members of his family.

Many other stories are being told of pranks the bullets have been playing of late.

other cities, where it is claimed higher wages are paid. Certainly they cannot compel the company to pay more, which, doubtless, is giving its employes all they are able or can afford to do under the short time they have been in operation and its many expenses.

The company has a right to manage its own affairs, and there is no law to compel them to pay more, and no right-minded or just person would expect them to do so. To an outsider the union men are standing very much in their own light, and against all reason. There are, doubtless, a large number of strikers who are willing and ready to go back at the same wages, but are forced to stay out by a majority of the disgruntled ones, who, it is feared, have ruined their chance for future work in Richmond, for the company will surely be sustained in its right by the strong arm of the law, and will refuse to employ the strikers who have caused so much trouble. Does it not prove that labor unons are a great disadvantage to all communities, and should not laws be enacted against them.

But passing, strange it is to see heads of families setting such an example as to encourage and allow their women and children to be mixed up in the howling mobs which are defying law and order. If Richmond allows this mob element to succeed in preventing the company from their legitimate business in running its cars, there will be just such scenes all over the State. No—sad to say it—even if innocent blood has to be shed, the law should be upheld, or Richmond will be no place for peaceable citizes.

Lunenburg After Us.

Lunenburg After Us.

Editor of The Times-Dispatch:
Sir —Poor old Lunenburg county, without a newspaper, had to stand hands folded, while Richmond, with its printing machines, abused her to the world during the Pollard murder trial. Forces were necessary to protect life in Lunenburg, where an act was committed which made the blood run cold in many peoples' veins; where the brain of a farmer's wife were turned out, while the husband was nursuing his agricultural pursuits. It is not natural that all in that community should be aroused to indignation, almost uncontrolable. Richmond, the city to criticise and give advice, to-day has to call on the State for protection.

She, the capital of our State, the city who slandered the county of Lunenburg, saying her people belonged to the backwoods and were unlawabiding citizens. Richmond ought t obe ashamed of herself, and every citizen in it who has gone out of his or her way to do more than sympathize with the strikers. This is a free country, where man has the right to work where he pleases, and because some men say they can't work at what they are gitting and the employers won't raise their wases the citizens interfera with their business and try to desiroy their property. I say it is a disgrace upon the citzens of Richmond.

Suppose the street car men can't live like lords on what they are getting. So well and so good. Let them quit and hunt a better job, which they have a perfect right to do, and let others who are willing take their places. But, Richmond, let Lunenburg give you a little advice—be civilized!
